Foreword

The compilation of a family history is seldom the work of one person. It would be almost impossible for a genealogist, no matter how interested, to trace each line and verify every date without the help of those who have maintained accurate and complete records of the births, marriages and deaths of their own families. When I first started searching for the parents of my ancestress, Judith (Prillaman) Stanley, I found that many people had information on the Prillaman family, but that it had never been verified or organized. A genealogy is the history of people, and through the interest and enthusiasm of the descendants of Jacob Prillaman, Sr., this genealogy has been compiled.

It would be too much to hope for the absence of errors, even though the data within has been rechecked and authenticated as far as possible. Some lineages will be found incomplete, and others we were unable to secure through correspondence. I shall appreciate additions and corrections in order that any future edition may be more complete.

For the help and encouragement of those who have contributed data to this history, I am very grateful. Mrs. Irene P. Coley of Danville, and Mrs. Evelyn P. Hairston of Bassett, both members of the Historians Committee of the Prillaman Family Reunion Committee, have worked with me for the past year, during which time we have visited family cemeteries, collected Bible records and interviewed older members of the family. Mr. Roy Prillaman of Stoneville, N. C., the chairman of the Reunion Committee, Mr. John Prillaman of Martinsville, the vice-chairman, and Mrs. Richard Crook of Rocky Mount, the secretary-treasurer, have encouraged the collecting of data. Miss Naomi Prillaman of Rocky Mount shared many of her valuable papers, and helped with the descendants of Abraham and Nedad Prillaman. Mr. Herbert Prillaman of Calloway allowed me to copy the gravestone records in the cemetery on his property, and contributed much data on the Floyd County Prillamans. Mr. Robert Prillaman of Calloway also showed us the family cemetary near his home and furnished the lineage of Philip and Milly Prillaman. Mr. Fleming Prillaman helped with the account of George and Dicy Prillaman, and showed us the family cemetary on his property. I am especially indebted to Mr. C. M. Prillaman of Henry and to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Prillaman of Henry, who arranged the cleaning of the family cemetery at the Marshall Prillaman place so that we could obtain needed dates.

The late Dr. John A. Kelly of Haverford, Penn., a scholar of Germanic languages, sent material on the Helm and Snidow families, and Mr. Brackett H. Snidow of Pembroke, Va. sent Snidow family notes. Mrs. Mamie Nash Latour of Salt Lake City, Utah, searched for records in the vast collection of the Genealogical Society of Utah, and furnished many of her family notes. Mr. Henry [illegible] Brazil of Austin, Texas, worked out the lineage of [illegible] who settled in Arkansas. Mr. William W. McBride of [illegible], Indiana, sent data on his ancestor Jacob Prillaman, Jr., who settled in Miami County, Ohio.

Foreword

Mrs. Retta M. Hultgren of Shelton, Washington, sent material on the Redwood family. Mrs. Earnest L. Thaxton of Lubbock, Texas, contributed the notes on Moses Fuller of Ohio. Mrs. Mary Watson Cowles of Tazewell, Va., helped with the line of Samuel and Amelia Prillaman.

I am very grateful for the help of Mrs. Maude M. Stanley of Ferrum, and of her mother, the late Molly Ruth Smiling, who knew so much about the Prillaman family. Mr. William Alfred Prillaman of Ferrum gave us information which he had compiled some years ago.

The hospitality and affection of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro M. Sloan of Ferrum have made this work a personal pleasure for me. Their love for Franklin County is a source of much inspiration.

The lion's share of all credit goes to Miss Louise Lister of Washington, D. C., who had searched records in twenty-seven courthouses, in Richmond and in Washington, D. C., and who has typed the final draft and arranged for the publication. She deserves the thanks of every member of the Prillaman family for her efforts to make this history as accurate and complete as possible.

I hope our readers will forgive the errors and remember the devotion that has gone into the writing of this account of a pioneer family of Franklin County.

Introduction

When Jacob Prillaman brought his family to Virginia about 1772, the land he bought was situated on the western frontier of the colony. The Blue Ridge Mountains, called then The Blue Ledge or the Blue Mountains, had long been not only a barrier to western migration but a wall of protection against the Indians who hunted in the valley beyond. Settlers had begun moving into the Great Valley from the north only a few years ago; even in 1772 there was a mere scattering of hardy frontiersmen living in the vast region west of New River.

The fear of Indian raids deterred many would-be settlers. And the danger was real. From their towns along the Ohio, the Shawnees were sending small war parties into the New River country. Many an isolated homestead was attacked and burned; the family killed or captured. Small forts were scattered along the frontier but afforded little protection to those who lived outside their walls.

Most of the land in the valley north of the New and Roanoke rivers had already been taken by the time Jacob Prillaman came. But south of the Blue Ridge, through the Roanoke River gap at the Big Lick, there was still good land to be had. There he settled on a branch of Blackwater River in the county of Pittsylvania.

It had been only five years since Halifax County had grown to a point where a division was needed and Pittsylvania taken from the western portion to form a new county. From Pittsylvania was formed Henry, Patrick and part of Franklin counties.

When Pittsylvania was divided in 1777, Jacob Prillaman lived in the new Henry County. And when Franklin County was created in 1785, his home was in this new county. Franklin was formed from that part of Bedford County lying south of Staunton (Roanoke) River, together with that portion of Henry north of a line to be run from the head of Shooting Creek to the west end of Turkey-cook Mountain, thence along the top of the mountain to the Henry and Pittsylvania county lines.

The formation of Patrick County from the western part of Henry County in 1791 did not disturb Jacob Prillaman. His home was Franklin County, Virginia, U. S. A.

Key to Numbering

The decision as to which numbering system to follow has been a difficult one, in view of the fact that any system must allow for the addition of names or of whole lineages, unavailable at present. The system used is based on the outline principle, though without indentations for reasons of space conservation, and depends for its success on the index at the back of the book

The three sons of the first Jacob Prillaman have been lettered A, B, and C, and his two daughters are D and E. The children of B, for instance (who is John Prillaman), are numbered B1, B2, B4, and so on. The children of B4 (who is Isaac, son of John), are numbered B4A, B4B, B4C, and so on. This leads to some complicated-looking sets of figures, which may be readily figured out by remembering that letters alternate with numbers, and that by counting the total number of figures, you can determine how many generations the person is removed from the original Jacob Prillaman. The number of children each person had is indicated under their entry, so that lists of children follow each set of parents.

It should be understood that any genealogy involving close to 800 descendants will present numbering difficulties, and the system decided on seemed most suitable after considering all the possibilities.

Definition of Terms

bond	used to indicate that the date of marriage given is the date shown on the marriage bond (an early type of license) and that the actual marriage probably followed by a few days or longer.
ca.	circa, meaning "about" or "approximately"
census	the official enumeration of the population, compiled by the census takers (in general, every decade) and housed in the National Archives, Washington, D. C.
ibid.	in the same place, indicating that the statement or quote appeared in the reference cited immediately above.
indenture	an agreement in writing, similar to a deed, usually in duplicate, the parts originally being notched or torn or otherwise "indented", so as to match up with one another.
sic	thus, used to indicate that the word preceding is exactly as it appears on the original.
surety	the person who furnished security on a marriage bond, usually a relative of the bride or groom.
tax lists	the yearly listing of residents within a county who owned either personal property or real estate, showing the amount of tax paid on either or both. Valuable because they show the year a person first appears in a county.
tithes	the amount of tax paid (usually a tenth of the profits or value) by settlers to the government, sometimes showing the number of men in the family of an age to be taxed.

JACOB PRILLAMAN, SENIOR

The first Prillaman in Virginia was Jacob Prillaman, Sr., who prior to 1772 had settled in that area of southwest Virginia which was then Pittsylvania County. Apparently he had lived in Maryland until he moved down into Virginia, for in 1763 he sold several hundred acres of land in Maryland possibly preparatory to his removal to Virginia. This record appears in G. M. Brumbaugh's Maryland Records as follows:

Conococheague - His Lordship's Kindness:

Date	To whom leased	Acres	Tenant	Annual rent	Alien fine
3-5-1753	James Kendall	100	Jacob Prylinman	1-0-0	0-0-0
6-13-1763	James Stockwell	115	Jacob Prillman	1-3-0	2-6-0

This land may have been located in Frederick County, Maryland, where many German settlers had come from Pennsylvania. It is interesting to note that he paid an "alien fine," which may indicate he was not born in this country, but was the original immigrant to America.

Jacob Prillaman was born in 1721, his birthplace unknown. When he came to Virginia, he was about 45 to 50 years old. Several of the early grants show his name as "Brillaman" and "Prillinman," which soon was changed to Prillaman. The family is undoubtedly of German origin, the name originally having been Brillmann, Brillemann or Prillmann. The German letter "b" is pronounced "p" and the change in spelling after arrival in America is a logical consequence. This change would be similar to the change in the family name of Beck, which became Peck in this country.

The first account of land ownership is dated 28 May 1772, when Jacob "Brillman" bought land for 180 pounds from Anthony Tittle. Located in Pittsylvania County, the land was on Mill Run, a branch of Blackwater River (See Appendix for a copy of this deed). This tract was likely in that portion of Pittsylvania County which became Henry County in 1776-1777, and which later (1785-1786) became Franklin County.

Six years later, in 1778, a record of one of Jacob's sons appears in the Henry County records, when Daniel Prillaman refused to take the Oath of Allegiance to Virginia. Four years later Jacob Prillaman, Sr., and his two sons Jacob, Jr. and John paid taxes in Henry County as property owners (Virginia Tax Records, 1782-1787, by A. B. Rothergill and J. H. Pope).

About 1783 Jacob Prillaman, Sr. began to receive land grants from the state of Virginia in the vicinity of the Blackwater River. The Henry, Franklin, and Pittsylvania County records show several such grants, the first two being dated 21 May 1784. One was for 404 acres in Pittsylvania County, on Lanier's Run of the Blackwater River. It is made in the name of "Jacob Brillaman" (Commonwealth Grants and Patents Book I, page 12).

The second, on the same date, was for 250 acres in Henry County, on the south side of the Blackwater River, adjoining Daniel Donahoe. This grant also used the spelling "Prillaman" (Book 1, page 13). Three days later, 26 May 1783, Jacob received 160 acres in Pittsylvania County, on the branches of Daniel's Run adjoining his own land and the lands of Oliver, Renfro and others (Book 1, page 17). See Appendix for a copy of this grant.

On 15 Sept. 1787, Jacob Prillaman bought from Joseph Hale for 50 pounds a tract of 59 acres on the branches of Blackwater River in Pittsylvania County (Franklin Co. Deeds). On 26 June 17[illegible] Jacob received 70 acres in Henry County on the south fork of the Blackwater River (Commonwealth Grants and Patents, Book 17, page [illegible]).

On 18 March 1789 Jacob "Pillemon" was granted 167 acres in Henry County on the branches of the Blackwater and Pigg Rivers (Book [illegible], p. 260). On 25 July 1794 he received 162 acres in Franklin County on a branch of Pigg River (Book 31, p. 161).

There are several references to Jacob Prillaman in the court records of Franklin County. He was appointed to view roads and serve on juries and was Overseer of the Poor. In 1797 he was exempted from future county levies, presumably because of his advanced age.

The wife of Jacob Prillaman is called "Waltpurgally" in his will, but the correct name was probably Walburga. One of their daughters names her as "Priscilla" in a marriage bond, but this may have been an attempt to Americanize the name by the recording clerk. Walburga Prillaman is believed to have been a Miss Helm, sister of the Elizabeth Helm who married John Snidow, whose son Philip Snidow married Jacob's daughter Barbara Prillaman. Walburga Prillaman died 22 March 1799.

Jacob Prillaman, founder of the family in Virginia, died between 19 July 1796 (the date of the making of his will) and September of the same year (the month in which the will was probated). Both Jacob and his wife are buried in the Prillaman family cemetary near Callaway, Va., where many other Prillaman graves are located. His gravestone is marked "J. P. / 1796 / 75 y" indicating he was aged 75 when he died, and therefore born in 1721. The top of his wife's gravestone has been broken off, leaving only the date "Mch 22 1799", the date of her death. A short distance from this old cemetary is the site of the first Prillaman settlement in the section, where the home of Elkanah Prillaman was built. The old rock "kitchen" in the rear of his property may be one of the earliest structures in the county, and possibly the first building erected on the land owned by the first generation of Prillamans. On the Blackwater River was an early fort, called Fort Blackwater, in use in 1757 and probably for some years after. The Prillamans may have settled near this fort for protection from the Indians. It has been suggested that the rock "kitchen" may itself have been used in early days as a small fort, with its thick walls and [illegible]

* * * *

The above will of Jacob Prillaman Sr., disposes of over a thousand acres of land, in Franklin and Montgomery counties. There is no evidence that he owned slaves, and up until the late 1790's, his sons were not slave owners.

There are a number of Prillaman marriage bonds in Miami Co., Ohio, the earliest ones probably being for Jacob's children, but the six children listed below form the most reliable list until further proof is available to prove or disprove it. Apparently Jacob Prillaman died intestate about 1840. As his estate administration is dated 19 August 1841 in Miami Co. The following list of Prillaman marriages in Miami Co., Ohio, is included to show the number of descendants of Jacob Prillaman who were in Miami Co.; the dates given are of the issuance of the marriage bond:

Prudence Prillaman & George Richardson, 20 Dec. 1808
Polly Prillaman & Daniel Sunderland, 28 May 1811
Sally Prillaman & Samuel Repper, 5 March 1812
Sally Prillaman & Barnabas Mann, 21 June 1816
William Prillaman & Margaret Williams, 23 Jan. 1817
Mary Prillaman & Henry Shell, 8 March 1823
Anna Prillaman & Shade Shell, 17 Feb. 1827
This couple and children appear in 1850 Miami Co., Ohio, census (Elizabeth Twp.) Book 34, p. 8.

A1. JOHN PRILLAMAN, son of Jacob Prillaman, Jr. No records.

A2. FRANCIS PRILLAMAN, son of Jacob Prillaman, Jr., born ca 1775, living in Miami Co., Ohio, in 1820.

A3. ANN PRILLAMAN, daughter of Jacob Prillaman, Jr., was born about 1777 and married 16 Feb. 1799 (date of bond) in Franklin Co., Va., Lewis Winters. Their marriage bond states Ann was the daughter of Jacob, and surety was furnished by her brother Christian. Ann and Lewis Winters moved to Miami Co., Ohio, where both were living in 1840. Lewis Winters was deceased by 1850, leaving a widow Anne living with her son Thomas. Lewis and Ann Winters had 11 children living with them in 1820, according to the Census schedules of that year. Some of the older persons might have been servants in the household. Only known children are these four: Lewis Winters, Jr., born in Virginia 1801, m. Susannah _____; Susannah Winters, born 1815; Sarah Winters, born 1813, and Thomas Winters, born 1812 in Ohio, married Louisa _____.

A4. CHRISTIAN PRILLAMAN, son of Jacob Prillaman, Jr., first appears in the Franklin County tax lists in 1797, and disappears after 1807, indicating he went to live with his father. His name is spelled "Christopher", "Christian" and several other ways. He was probably named for Christian Bulden (1760-1810), a kinsman. Christian Prillaman married in Franklin Co., Va., 18 June 1790 (bond), Elizabeth Bulden, daughter of Molly. A month later he witnessed his grandfather's will. Christian Prillaman probably had 9 children.

She and Henry Hickman moved from Rhea County prior to 1840, but did not settle in Hot Springs Co., Ark. with Jacob Prillaman. It is probable the Hickmans settled in an adjoining county in Arkansas. Barbara received a horse and a slave at the time of her marriage, and was not left anything in her father's will. In later years, the Hickmans returned to Virginia to claim more from John Prillaman's estate, but were not successful.

DANIEL PRILLAMAN

C. Daniel Prillaman, son of Jacob and Walburga Prillaman:

Daniel Prillaman was born 5 Dec. 1758, and died 6 Jan. 1854, and is buried in the family cemetary at the old Marshall Prillaman home, together with his wife and many of his descendants. Daniel married about 1777, Ann O'Briant, born 9 Feb. 1758, died 26 May 1850, the daughter of Dennis O'Bryant. The inscriptions on their gravestones may be clearly read, although Ann's is broken in half.

Daniel Prillaman came to Virginia with his father Jacob. On 19 Jan. 1778 Daniel Prillaman, together with Dennis O'Briant and John Bryant, "refuseth to take and subscribe the oath or affirmation of allegiance to the Commonwealth of Virginia" (Virginia Magazine of History & Biography, Vol. 9 page 14). This refusal may have been because of his religious convictions, or because of a stronger allegiance to Germany and England. In the first list of tithes taken in Henry County in 1782, Daniel Prillaman's name appears, with those of his father and two brothers, and he was listed as a resident of that county until 1786, when he and his family appear in Franklin County, which had been cut off from Henry the preceding year.

On 17 June 1783, Daniel had received a grant of 285 acres in Henry County, on Nicholas Creek adjoining Dennis O'Briant (Commonwealth Grants & Patents, Book H, page 243). Nine years later, on 10 July 1792, he acquired the plantation of his father-in-law Dennis O'Briant by a deed of gift, consisting of 286 acres on Nicholas Creek, which was then in Franklin County (Franklin County Deeds, Book 2, page 414). This land had been granted to Dennis O'Briant in 1769, and later became the property of Daniel's son David Prillaman.

Daniel Prillaman acquired other land in the Nicholas Creek section in 1802 and 1803. He bought from Robert Stockton, for $43.00, a tract of 33 acres on 10 Sept. 1802, on Nicholas Creek. On 3 Dec. 1803 he bought 33 acres from Spencer James and Nathaniel Dixon, which was also on Nicholas Creek.

The old home of Daniel Prillaman burned in 1911, at which time the family Bible was also destroyed; the house was rebuilt, using the original chimneys. The family cemetary where Daniel and Ann are buried is on the property. Daniel Prillaman lived in the Brown Hill section, while his brothers remained on the Blackwater; possibly Daniel moved because of his marriage to Ann O'Briant, whose father was an early settler on Nicholas Creek. One family tradition relates that Daniel had a powder mill near the original family home, and that one day the mill blew up, and Daniel immediately removed to Brown Hill, leaving his brothers behind.

From 1799 on, Daniel Prillaman's name appears in the Court Order Books of Franklin County. In 1799 he was appointed to supervise the surveys for roads, and was appointed an Overseer of the Poor, as his father had been. He served on juries and transferred lands through the court. At the time of his death in 1854, he was still living on Nicholas Creek. One descendant tells of a slave who was present at the estate sale in 1854, who remembers Daniel's son Dennis repeating, "I'll tell you this one thing--I want Daddy's buck (spotted) horse!"

Daniel Prillaman's will is dated 1845, probated 1854, and names his wife Ann and ten children.

C1. JACOB PRILLAMAN III, son of Daniel and Ann (O'Brient) Prillaman, was born 28 July 1778, died 12 May 1856, "aged 79 years, 9 months and 15 days", according to his gravestone. He and a number of his descendants are buried in the Marshall Prillaman cemetery. Jacob married 3 March 1803 (bond) in Montgomery Co., Va., to Nancy Snider, born 1783, died 1875, the daughter of Philip and Barbara (Prillaman) Snider of near Blacksburg, Va. Jacob Prillaman served in the War of 1812, as a lieutenant. The Franklin County Order Book in Dec. 1811 shows he was promoted to Lieutenant in the 2nd battalion, 110th Regt. He spent most of his life near the land his father owned on Nicholas Creek. In 1850 Jacob was taxed on an estate valued at $5,000. George and Fleming Prillaman were administrators of his estate after his death of pleurisy in 1856. His widow, Nancy, was taxed in 1860 on an estate of over $10,000, and her son Fleming who lived with her, owned property of over $5,000.

Mary Ruth Mullins, late of Ferrum, wrote the following account of her ancestor Jacob Prillaman III:
"Jacob was a soldier, merchant, slave owner, and owned considerable land. He donated the forge tract on Smith River to the Mairstons to establish the Iron Works. They built a dam across Smith River and made "pig iron", and many valuable cooking utensils, skillets, pots, pans, ovens and other articles. The land, the Iron Works, mules and slaves were valued at $30,000, as recorded in the Clerk's Office in Franklin County. A verbal agreement stipulated that the land was to revert to the Jacob Prillaman estate in case the Helmston Iron Works went down. He was to have the privilege of getting water power from the dam to run a mill for grinding grain. Jacob's brother John (Jack) already owned a mill, so he had no need of a mill. The big dam washed out when the business was run by G. M. Leasuer and A. H. Turner after the former owners passed away."

In 1824, Jacob Prillaman of Franklin Co. gave a "chickasaw mare and colt, it being the mare that I bought of John Foster" to William B. Price, son of Barnard M. Price of Patrick Co. "in consideration of the mutual love and affection I bear" (Patrick Co. Deeds, Book 6, page 406).

The use of coats-of-arms and heraldic devices in America is much misunderstood. In actual practice, no American citizen is entitled to display arms, and when we prove dreams that the original recipient of the armorial grant existed, the claims of such arms usually to result. Even when a proved line of descent from an ancestor who bore arms by legal or royal grant may be traced, it should be determined that all intervening lineal descendants of that ancestor would be equally entitled to the right to display his arms if the primogeniture were not regulated in some manner. Hence the right to bear arms usually is vested in the male line only and vestigial in the eldest male of each generation. In spite of the fact that coats-of-arms are not a right to American families, it is considered a matter of curiosity to be able to trace one's pedigree to an ancestral family in Europe and to know that arms have been recorded in the College of Heralds, for example, for that specific family. Since many families of the same surname may have lived in a certain country or area, instead of which none exists but to claim, it should be understood that the claimant must be actually related to the family which granted the arms, and to establish some that relationship must exist, say. Hence, the idea of coats of Prillaman, Prillamyshire, and therefore to be classed without question.

Much has been speculated about the Prillaman coat-of-arms, but as far as is known, there is no coat-of-arms registered or otherwise in use by this family. Several persons have claimed that the arms was originally [illegible] from a page in a [illegible] Bible [illegible] family members [illegible] as if the Holy Bible [illegible] is unlikely. In any the least, that Jacob Prillaman (or Prillaman) or his [illegible] would have, in the space of such a short time, changed the spelling of his name so radically, [illegible] ending "man" equivalent to Helman, an old name [illegible] would not change to "man" [illegible] man, [illegible] Jacob Prillaman of Virginia was only two or three generations removed from the original Johann von Prillamyn [illegible], and because families are seldom unlikely to change [illegible] in such a manner and in such a brief span of years.

At present the place of origin of [illegible] is believed to have been [illegible], although [illegible] the family [illegible]. It is [illegible] of [illegible] according to [illegible] and the [illegible] before any [illegible] may be made [illegible]. In the [illegible] to say that [illegible] coats-of-arms [illegible] are in violation of the [illegible] of [illegible]. In the [illegible] such rights can be proved, an announcement to that effect will be made at the [illegible].

William [illegible] died in 1801, leaving a will which [illegible] to be half a plantation on [illegible] Creek [illegible] William, Jr. and Nerson (the last two minor [illegible] in 1801) and [illegible] daughters, Isabel, Sally and Polly.

The O'Briant Family

Dennis O'Briant was an early settler on Nicholas Creek, arriving in Pittsylvania County before 1767. On 14 July 1769 he received a grant of 286 acres in Pittsylvania County "on both sides of Nicholas's Creek." This tract of land became part of Henry County in 1776, where Dennis paid a personal property tax in 1782 and for the next three years following. In 1786 his land was located in Franklin County, newly organized, where he appears on the tax lists through 1793. By that time his tax was paid only on livestock and horses, for in 1785 he had been declared "levy free" because of his advanced age.

In 1792 Dennis deeded his home plantation, the original grant of 286 acres, to his "loving son Daniel Williamson," who had married Ann O'Briant, and who already owned adjoining land on Nicholas Creek.

Dennis O'Briant furnished "Neat Beef" to the troops in Franklin County during the Revolution and was reimbursed for his expenditures. He apparently died soon after 1793, leaving no will. In addition to his daughter Ann who married Daniel Williamson, he may have had a son Dennis, Jr., who married Ruth Manier in 1792.

The John O'Bryant who appears also in the tax lists was probably closely related to Dennis. John received land in Henry County on 1 June 1782, adjoining Dennis on Nicholas Creek.

The name Dennis O'Briant appears in early Maryland records; one of the name, born in 1757, served in the Maryland Rifle Corps during the Revolution. In 1798 there was a Dennis O'Briant in a Troop of Horse in Virginia, possibly near Roanoke. The name is not uncommon in early records in both states, spelled a variety of ways, including O'Bryant, Briant, O'Brant, Bryant, and such.
